Academic Project

Mobile based vaccination System For Government Asha Workers Mobile based vaccination system is a completely digitized application to manage and maintain vaccination details of a particular area. A system with all the features mentioned is not implemented yet and is a milestone in this area. This system can save a lot of human effort, time and cost by keeping all the records in digital form. Also it saves the job of keeping separate manual files for each vaccinated user. Thus it have many advantages. Only disadvantage of this system is that it requires an active internet connection all the time to operate.
